STILL HIGH AND WET

A group of shorefront property owners on Round, North, and South ponds is working to ensure that pond lilies and people don't run out of water. The group met last week with Duane Gilbert, owner of Gilbert Manufacturing Corporation in Greenwood, whose dam controls the water levels in the ponds. The property owners were worried that too much water has been going through the dam, resulting in the lowest pond levels in memory. They are now putting together a plan to remove a log which is apparently jammed in the dam's gate, in order to close the gate another one or two inches. "We think the bulk of the problem is the dryness. The water is still going down at a rapid rate," said South Pond resident Terry Elsemore. He said Gilbert has offered staff and equipment to help find a solution.

Lower Main Street closed today

A portion of lower Main Street in Bethel will be closed off today (Wednesday) so that sewer and water lines can be extended to the new ambulance-barn site.

The closing is expected to last no longer than a day, according to Town Manager Madeleine Henley. "They'll be staying as late as necessary to get it all done," Henley said.

She recommended that motorists use Railroad and Mechanic streets for traveling between the village and Route 26. Shops and businesses on lower Main Street will remain accessible from the upper part of the street.

Readying for the kids, coping with the cuts

By ALISON ALOISIO

With less than a week to the opening of school, the SAD44 staff is scrambling to get ready.

Two factors are hampering them -- a $500,000 budget cut, and the lateness with which that budget was decided.

Despite the obstacles, superintendent Ron Jenkins and the school principals said the staff will give their best effort to students when opening day arrives. Here's a look at the situation in schools across the district:

Telstar

Staff members were cut district-wide, but the greatest impact will be felt at the Telstar complex.

Both the high and middle schools are working to update student schedules. Loss of teachers has made all the schedules incorrect. And with the high school guidance staff cut by half, the task is monumental, according to computer network manager and data processor Toni Robertson.

"It's a nightmare," she said.

Robertson said new schedules would be sent out to students, but even those won't be final until students meet with guidance staff to make final adjustments.

Meanwhile, principal Ted Davis is trying to figure out what he can do for several upperclassmen who have just completed two years of French.

The French teacher was cut, and the students need four years of one

Local 4th-graders score solidly on latest MEAs

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD44 fourth-graders scored within the state's comparison score band in all subjects except science and arts & humanities on the 1995 Maine Educational Assessment test.

The band is a range of scores used to compare a district's results to what they would be if the district performed at the average level for its socioeconomic background.

Comparisons were as follows, with district score first and comparison band range in parentheses: reading, 265 (250-285); writing, 285 (255-290); math, 275 (265-300); science, 240 (250-285); social studies, 245 (235-275); arts and humanities, 240 (250-285); health 245 (225-260).

The students also fell quite close to the district's cumulative average scores.

Boys better in some areas

The fourth-grade boys outperformed their female classmates in math and social studies. In earlier years there had been a distinct pattern of the girls scoring better than the boys. That pattern was not a statewide trend. But now for the second year, the boys outdid the girls in several areas.

In social studies, boys scored an average 260 to the girls' 230 (possible scores range from 100-400).

Parkway could be ready for use by Thanksgiving

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Maine Department of Transportation is putting the Bethel Station Parkway project out to bid today (Wednesday).

The contract contains a provision calling for the base coat to be complete by Nov. 15, according to Alden Small, MDOT deputy commissioner.

With the base coat in place, the parkway will be ready to accept traffic over the winter. The final layers of pavement would be put down during the 1996 construction season.

Developer Henrie Merrill closed Monday on the last of the parcels of land needed for the parkway right of way, and that same day he deeded the land over to MDOT.

Clearing the way for the parkway has taken more than two years and severely set back the progress of the project.

The parkway is intended to replace Cross Street, which runs through the heart of the proposed project area, including over the land slated to be the site of the 100-plus room Bethel Station Hotel.

Construction on the hotel can't go forward until the parkway is usable and Cross Street is closed, but even if the new road is usable by mid-November, it will be too late to allow for any further building construction this season.

Merrill said there is no current target date for closing Cross Street. Such a closing would require the permission of both the MDOT and the town.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley said the town would not even consider closing Cross Street until the ambulance barn is relocated to its new site on lower Main Street.

The relocation, which is being handled by the developers as part of the original land-for-buildings swap, is scheduled to be completed by the end of October.

NEW ICE SKATING RINK PERHAPS?—A stormwater treatment pond will run for 600 feet along the new Bethel Station Parkway. The pond provides for the evaporation of any oil or gasoline picked up by the rainwater from the paved areas of the project. Developer Henrie Merrill has suggested that the pond would be ideal for trying out a kayak or new fly rod, or for ice skating in the winter. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Selectmen will take up road-rollerblading question

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has agreed to hold a public workshop on a request to allow skateboarders and rollerbladers to use town roads.

But no date was set for meeting, and the selectmen expressed little urgency in moving on the issue. "Sometime before the next regular Town Meeting," said board chairman Bob Chadbourne, when asked about when the workshop might be scheduled.

Local streets are currently off limits to skateboarders and rollerbladers, but in July Frank Petillo asked the board to review that policy.

Petillo, who was interested in finding a safe place for his children to rollerblade, argued that such activities should not be treated any differently than bicycling.

The board agreed then to have Town Manager Madeleine Henley contact the town's insurance carrier, as well as police chief Dale Bellman and the Recreation Committee to see how they felt about the request.

Henley reported back Monday that none of the three was opposed to such a change.

The insurance carrier (the Maine Municipal Association risk pool) said there were no liability issues involved.

Police chief Bellman had contacted the Paris Police Department, which had suggested a number of rules to govern such activities (including specified times and locations).

And, Henley reported, the Recreation Committee had discussed the idea and agreed "it wouldn't be an awful thing," but that helmets and possibly other protective gear should be required.

Dick Taylor, Gould Academy's cross-country ski director, also wrote, noting the safety practices

From tending traplines to penning lines on trapping

By ALISON ALOISIO

Neil Olson of East Bethel thinks too many people have lost touch with the romance of the great outdoors. Hoping to rekindle that feeling in some of us, he has written a book -- "Neil Olson's Trapline Adventure Stories."

A Bethel native, Olson has been a trapper since his youth. He has a college degree in English and was certified as a teacher, but he never pursued it. "The pay scale for teachers isn't what I call very good," he said.

But with a lifetime of trapping experience providing plenty of material, he did put pen to paper for a 76-page collection of short stories. He describes the book as "entertaining, comical, romantic, and even a little bit mystical."

The story titles (including "Bullet Holes in the Truck," "Elephant Charge," "Off to the Hospital," "Wife on the Line," and "Sex on the Beach") have stirred the interest of trappers and non-trappers alike.

"I sold quite a few copies to elderly women who came back and bought another copy to send or give to someone else. I think the chapters titled "Sex on the Beach" and "Having Sex" got to them," he said.

So far he has sold 400 copies of the book, which has been available for about three weeks. With distributors in New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, Ohio, and Maine, he hopes eventually to sell 10,000 copies. The book is illustrated with photos and cartoons drawn by Olson's friend, Bob Noonan.

Most of the stories have an element of humor in them. Olson's

WE NEED THAT OPEN SPACE

To the Editor:

I am writing this in my capacity as both the executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and as a board member of the Mahoosuc Land Trust in support of the MLT's efforts to purchase and protect the Verrill property on the corner of Route 26 and the Intervale Road in Bethel.

As we all know, the Bethel region is changing rapidly. It is a popular four-season destination recreation region, and there is ever increasing interest in our region's real estate for business development. We receive many inquiries of this type each week in the chamber office.

As much as we want to encourage a healthy, diverse economy, we also want to protect ourselves from becoming "just another built-up, overcrowded resort area." We value our open space, our views, the multiple use of our forests and our natural resources, not only for ourselves but also because those things are what is driving our economy. The tourists value those things, too.

When the Verrill property was put on the market, many of us could visualize a business wanting that "high visibility, high traffic" location. This piece of real estate has historically and continues to be the "Gateway" to our community, with a beautiful view of the mountains and river. Views like this are very important to us, and we would like it to remain unobstructed!

The Mahoosuc Land Trust is open to suggestions for what the land should be used for and plans to continue to pay taxes on it. Some of the uses suggested so far are: community gardens, a scenic pull-out and a school Christmas tree plantation. We would like this space to be one that the people of the Bethel area can cherish for generations to come.

BUY THE LAND FOR BETHEL'S SAKE

To the Editor:

This past year has seen a tremendous interest and support in the historic past of Bethel and the preservation of our "typical" New England village.

The town common boasts three such projects: the brick walk funded by many residents, the watering trough refurbished by the Rotary Club, and now the construction of the gazebo. Main Street has been enhanced by Pat Thurston with the Philbrook Place and the 4-Seasons projects. In addition, we now have the first two buildings in the Bethel Station project which have begun to transform Cross Street. There is a distinct movement afoot to move Bethel into the 21st century while at the same time preserving its historic past. My congratulations to all who have made these changes and others.

However, our work is not ended. There is another project which deserves all of our support. This is the purchase of the triangular (trapezoid) piece of land bordered by Route 26 and the East Bethel Road (Middle Intervale Road) by the Mahoosuc Land Trust. This purchase will preserve, forever, the southern entrance to the town with its magnificent mountain vistas. This purchase will provide for any number of possible options for the citizens of Bethel: ballfields, picnic areas, nature preserve, farm land, etc., but not fast-food outlets or other such development.

Please support this purchase by contacting the Mahoosuc Land Trust (824-2444) or by sending a check to MLT, Main Street, Bethel, ME 04217 to help with the purchase price. Anything you can afford will truly be an investment in the future of our town and will be greatly appreciated.

SCHOOL BOARD'S DONE IT AGAIN

To the Editor:

Well, the school board has done it again. After the people said they must make cuts, they did, but they raised the cost of lunches and the money comes out of taxpayers' pockets again.

M. Hand, school board member of Woodstock, told me that if my taxes went up too much because of SAD44, I should apply to the state for tax refund. Why should we have to go to the state to help pay our taxes just because SAD44 can't control their spending? They made some cuts to teachers, but none of the so-called bigwigs took any cuts. Look at this, Mr. Jenkins got a raise -- makes sense, doesn't it? Maybe the price of lunches going up is going to pay for his nice pay raise.

We, the people, said cut the waste and control your spending. Not give out pay raises again when the monies aren't really there, and the school can't afford them and neither can we, the people!

LANGUAGES BEFORE COMPUTERS

To the Editor:

In last week's Citizen, along with the long list of budget cuts, it was stated that there was still $40,000 available to buy computers for Telstar Middle School.

When Telstar High School first opened, there were four languages offered: French, German, Latin and Spanish. The past few years only French and Spanish have been offered. The decision of the district directors to cut the French position has left any student planning to go to college with no options. Those students in the French program planning to take French III or IV will not be able to take those courses. French II will be offered this year. All students planning to take French I have been rescheduled into Spanish I.

All students planning to go to a four-year college must take a foreign language. Some colleges require three, if not four years of one language. The juniors and seniors already taking French have been left unable to meet such a requirement.

Doesn't the district have an obligation to those students already studying French? Would it be possible to use some of the $40,000 to hire a part-time French teacher?

HAVE A GOOD WINTER

To the Editor:

In the fifty years I have been coming to Bethel, I have seen a small town grow and prosper, and have its ups and downs.

Our three children grew up buying penny candy from Daisy at Songo Pond beach.

There needs to be more enforcement on stray dogs at the Songo Pond area.

The Mahoosuc Music Makers need more publicity and more specific info on their location at playing time.

To all our friends in Bethel, we wish you a good winter and will see you in '96.

that Gould skiers use when training on roller skis.

"I would hope the current ordinance could be reworked to at least allow the crossing from Gould to the edges of town," Taylor concluded.

Selectman John Thurston, the only board member to have taken part in the 1989 decision to ban such activities, was sympathetic.

"We're tarring everyone with the same brush," he said. "I believe there's a difference between high school students on skis and a 10-year-old on a skateboard."

Dutch Dresser expressed ambivalence on the issue, and suggested using the Crescent Park School parking lot, which would avoid "putting every driver at risk of running over some kid who comes out from behind a parked car."

Ultimately, the board members agreed they were not ready to move ahead on such a change, and that a workshop would provide an opportunity for getting more public input.

Hendley said later the workshop is likely to be scheduled for sometime in the fall.

Other business

The board Monday also signed off on plans for the Mechanic Street phase of the sewer system inflow and infiltration removal project.

The project is expected to go to bid by mid-September and to be completed by mid-November.

Its completion will mark the end of the Downtown Revitalization Project, which was begun in 1990.

The board, Monday, also approved a revision of the town's personnel policies that would allow for employees to sell back to the town up to 15 days of accrued vacation time. Each employee would be able to do this only once during their years of employment with the town.

Tom Bomea, an abutter of the town's sludge spreading site on Route 2, also appeared Monday to complain about the smell from the site.

The sludge might "be good enough to eat or drink or to grow with," he said, "but it still stinks."

The selectmen expressed sympathy, but said there was little they could do, since the sludge had to go somewhere and land spreading was the Department of Environmental Protection's recommended option.

They agreed, however, to look into other ways of disposing of the sludge.

"I don't know if there's something we can do or not, but I think it's responsible to pursue (possible alternatives)," Chadbourne said.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Approximately 40 people gathered at Riverside Cemetery on Sunday afternoon in front of the marker of Annie Allender Gould, a missionary in China, who was beheaded during the Boxer Rebellion. Society Director Stanley R. Howe welcomed the group and briefly described Miss Gould's connection with Bethel, her Twitchell mother's home town. Howe stated that the missionary was probably born not far from the cemetery in the house that once stood where the present Clanton residence does today. Stephen T. Seames read from the diary of Annie Gould's father, John Mead Gould, his reaction to the news of his daughter's death in China. The diary is owned by the Maine Historical Society and was brought to Bethel for this occasion by the head of library services, Nicholas Noyes, a descendant of John Mead Gould.

Following this portion of the afternoon's program, the group reassembled in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House for a lecture on China, the Boxer Rebellion, Annie Gould and the photographer R. Harvey Sargent by Craig Dietrich, professor of history at the University of Southern Maine and a specialist in Chinese history. Professor Dietrich, who holds a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, described the conditions in China that led to the Boxer uprising and the world Annie Gould would have known during her seven years as a missionary. He also stated that Sargent photographed some of the sites with which Miss Gould would have been familiar.

WHO PAYS FOR LONG TERM CARE?

With Congress threatening to slash Medicaid, it's time to reflect on what Medicaid does for American families and older Americans who need long term care. Right now, Medicaid pays for more than half of all nursing home care in America. Families pay most of the rest, often with real sacrifice. Without Medicaid, the burden of paying for nursing home care would fall almost entirely on families. Here's who pays for nursing homes:

Policy changes in Andover

ANDOVER--Selectmen last week adopted a policy that would require a vote of the board to change town assessment values. Prior to the change it would have been possible for any one selectman to change a property value listed in the town office without conferring with the others. "It's a safeguarding measure," said selectman Joe Madigan. The board also agreed to change its meeting schedule from weekly to every other week. Improvements to the town dump are continuing. Madigan said recycling bins should be delivered in about a week.

Upton goes to 911

UPTON--Upton (533) telephone customers may now dial "911" for emergency calls, with those calls being forwarded to the Oxford County Sheriff's Department "743" number. The service is not "Enhanced 911," in which the caller's phone number and location are immediately identified. Customers will experience a slight change in the sound of their dial tone before placing calls, and people placing calls to "533" numbers will also hear a slight change in the sound of the ring-back tone, according to Dawna Cook, public affairs manager for Oxford West Telephone Co. Upton customers may now subscribe to a number of special calling features, such as Call Waiting, Cancel Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Speed Dialing, 3-Way Calling, and various toll restriction options. Oxford West also hopes to offer equal access in the near future to out-of-state long distance carriers, allowing customers to select long distance carriers of their choice. Customers with questions may call 533-9911.

Lewiston woman hurt at Step Falls

NEWRY--A Lewiston woman cut her head when she fell on rocks at Step Falls off Route 26 last Wednesday, officials said. The unidentified 23-year-old woman was carried out on a trail to a parking lot where rescue vehicles were waiting. She was taken to Rumford Community Hospital where she was treated and released. Rescue and hospital officials declined to give the woman's name.

Static electricity causing gas fires?

AUGUSTA--Following gasoline fires in Bridgton and Casco, the state Fire Marshall's office is warning people to be very cautious when filling gas containers. The office is researching a possible connection of a build-up of static electricity between the containers and plastic bedliners in pick-up trucks, caused by the movement of the containers while they are being transported. The fire Marshall's office is recommending that the containers be removed from the vehicle, placed on the ground, and opened up prior to filling them, in order to reduce static build-up.

Game farm plans programs

GRAY--The Gray Game Farm will be the site of several 45-minute wildlife programs targeted specifically at school children in grades K-9. Presentations by wildlife biologists and other natural resource professionals will take place on six consecutive Wednesday mornings from Sept. 20 through Oct. 25, and will include programs titled Birds and their Adaptations; Raptors and Reptiles; Skins and Skulls; Maine's Black Bears; Fishes of Maine; and Halloween Raptors. Maine wildlife are also on display. The 200-acre property is located off Route 26, and is open seven days a week through Nov. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For information call 287-5244.

Decoyed trooper wants job back

ALFRED--A state trooper fired for shooting a deer decoy on posted land says he'll try to get his job back now that his conviction has been overturned. A Superior Court justice ruled last week that the prosecutor did not prove Trooper Stephen Emerson IV trespassed on posted land. Only the bullet, not the trooper, ended up on the private property in Arundel, the ruling said. Emerson, 36, admitted he shot at the decoy. He was placed on unpaid leave Nov. 29, two days after he was charged with the hunting violation. He was fired in mid-February following his conviction. Wardens caught Emerson through a program using decoys to detect illegal hunters. Seven months ago a district court judge had ruled prosecutors had proved their case of criminal trespass against Emerson. Emerson said if he had shot a real deer, he had intended to go to the landowners and get permission to get it.

Conservationists try to save old trees

WILTON, N.H.--A developer has given townspeople and conservation groups about a month to raise $500,000 to save a rare forest, or it will be cut for lumber. "This is very valuable land," said Henry Tepper, director of the New Hampshire branch of the Nature Conservancy. "It's loaded with timber, rich gravel deposits and its real estate value. The owners are business people and to their credit, I must say, they were about to start harvesting the timber but held off until we could discuss this. But we don't have that much time. Maybe just a month," Tepper said some trees on the 227-acre tract are at least 200 years old. Two neighboring property owners have together pledged $100,000 to purchase the land. The plan is for the Nature Conservancy to buy the land, then turn it into a nature preserve that would be open to the public for recreation and educational purposes, including hiking and cross-country skiing.

Roxbury forms tax association

ROXBURY--About 50 Roxbury citizens formed a taxpayers association last week in response to increases in their tax bills of from 30 to 50 percent. The increases were due to reassessed land values. The group plans to look at how the property was valued, as well as whether the state tree growth law and school funding formula can be changed to help them. Some thought property assessments under tree growth should go up as taxes go up. Others said the price the town pays to educate its children in SAD43 is too high. The group plans to meet next with the town's attorney to consider options.

Derailment cleanup slow

NORTH STRATFORD--Residents are frustrated with the slow pace of cleanup following a St. Lawrence and Atlantic train wreck on July 5, according to a report in the Coos County Democrat. Fourteen cars derailed and tipped over in the center of town. The wreck destroyed a three-story apartment building and badly damaged another. The damaged cars were dragged off the track to open the route for traffic, and the railroad has been back in operation for a few weeks. But the debris from the accident is still there, and about 10 people were left without homes as a result of the derailment. Two neighboring buildings had to be closed because the damaged buildings appear ready to collapse. Officials are also concerned because food left in the buildings are attracting animals. Railroad officials could not be reached for comment.

Maine draws jet-skiers

NAPLES--More and more jet-skis are showing up on Maine lakes. Maine's laws regulating the machines are less strict than those of other New England states, making the state attractive to jet-ski enthusiasts. Anyone 12 or older with no license, safety training or knowledge of personal watercraft can operate a jet-ski at speeds up to 70 miles per hour. According to the Coast Guard, last summer personal watercraft accounted for 2 percent of the boats in the United States, but were involved in 27 percent of the accidents. New Hampshire has banned the machines on more than three-quarters of its lakes. Vermont requires a safety course and has considered a ban. In Massachusetts, jet-skiers must be at least 16. Besides safety worries, the noise and possible impact on wildlife are also a concern of many Maine lakeside residents.

THINK ABOUT OUR FUTURE ENVIRONMENT
RECYCLE NOW

From the Bethel Police log:

Make hay while the moon shines

On Aug. 16 at 8:33 p.m. a Bethel Rescue volunteer reported that a vehicle that had been traveling very slowly on Vernon Street stopped and let two juvenile boys out. The boys then ran down behind a residence. Police located them in a field. They said they were piling hay bales, and wanted to do it at night when it was cooler. Police planned to confirm the story with the owner of the hay.

Friday, Aug. 18

At 6:32 p.m. Frank R. Heath of Berlin, N.H., was observed by police driving from Brown's Mobil Station. The police officer had prior knowledge of an outstanding arrest warrant on him. After confirming the warrant, the officer stopped Heath in front of Telstar and arrested him. A subsequent check showed Heath's right to operate in Maine was suspended.

At 9:35 p.m. the owner of the Rostay Inn reported two men in the area acting suspiciously. When confronted, they said they were hitchhiking from Laconia, N.H., to Caribou, Maine, and were looking for a place to sleep. After everything was explained to both parties, the men rented a room at the Rostay.

Saturday, August 19

At 7:58 p.m. a Bethel resident reported a vehicle had struck a large cow moose that had run into the road on Route 2. Police dispatched the moose and released it to an occupant of the vehicle, a Norway resident.

Sunday, August 20

At 12:05 p.m. a Bethel resident reported her former roommate had come to her residence and they had an argument over a new tenant. Reportedly they shoved one another and the complainant's glasses were broken. Police spoke with the second party, who said she was willing to pay for some of the damage to the glasses. She said the other matter would be handled by her attorney civilly. Police planned to speak to both parties later to try to reach an agreement.

Monday, August 21

At 10:12 p.m. a West Bethel resident reported that her husband, Frank R. Tuttle, 26, had beaten her up and thrown her over furniture, and had then left the house. On arrival police noted she had bruises and blood on her mouth. A table had been broken, and a TV was on the floor. There was also a hole in the wall. The complainant said Tuttle had drunk 8 to 10 beers. She said he had gone to the Bethel Park Apartments. Police arrested Tuttle there on a charge of domestic assault.

Tips from the Community Lakes Association

To insure that runoff is clean when it enters lakes, rivers, and streams landowners should maintain a vegetative buffer strip along the water's edge. A buffer strip is an area of undisturbed vegetation usually composed of trees, shrubs, and a thick duff layer. These areas filter runoff and prevent pollution from entering the water. Buffer strips should be from 25 to 250 feet wide. The steeper the land the wider the buffer. The surface should be irregular to break up the flow of water. Lawns do not make good buffer areas. Many different kinds of shrubs and trees can be planted to restore a buffer area. Paths through this area should be limited to a winding path no more than four to six feet wide. Don't mow or rack this area as the grass and duff act as good filters. If you need more information contact the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD), 207-743-7019.

language in order to get into top colleges.

Davis also said the remaining language, Spanish, will have bigger classes. He said Spanish I, for example, could have 30 students. In the past, enrollment has been cut off at 20.

When asked what answer he would give to parents who said they had to leave school in classes of 30, Davis said schools are not required to provide for the needs of students. He said when parents were going to school, they were now served with a lower level of the schools.

Teachers have to make allowances in their curriculum to meet all these needs. And then you have to ask, is that taking away from opportunities for the other students? said Davis.

At the middle school, principal Dick Blackman said a big concern, aside from the same scheduling difficulties, is the lack of money for the library.

Thirty thousand dollars was cut, $20,000 of it to help preserve staff positions. For the time being at least, Blackman said that leaves no money in the library account to even keep magazine subscriptions going for the year. He said the money would probably be taken from somewhere else.

"That money would also have gone toward replacing missing reference volumes. And Linda (Blackman, the librarian) had also weeded out some 1960's science books that contained misinformation. There are some bare places on the shelves," he said.

Blackman also said the loss of a French and keyboard teacher would leave some holes in students' afternoon schedules.

"There'll be some blocks of time where we'll have to create some activities for the kids with teacher coverage," he said.

Woodstock

In Woodstock, principal Bruce Bell said the loss of an educational technician to help out in the third and fourth grade will be difficult on everyone.

"We have a number of students who were retained, and others who have learning difficulties. We had a plan, but now the resources aren't there, so the educational services become compromised," he said. "When you don't correct learning problems in elementary school, you have to remediate later -- and it costs more to fix them later. The gap of the problems accumulate," he said.

Bell also said the staff will have to do without supplies for a while.

Due to the lateness of the budget, orders could not be placed until recently.

Crescent Park

The loss of the librarian is the main void left at Crescent Park School, according to principal David Murphy. Volunteers will be counted on to fill in.

"We're fortunate that we have a very active volunteer organization, the PTA," Murphy said.

The school will see an increase in its student body -- from 302 last year to 327 this year.

Murphy said students were coming from a variety of backgrounds and geography. Eight of the additional children will be tuition students from Hanover.

"I'm confident we'll have a great year," Murphy said.

Andover

Andover principal Barb Sabin said the loss of the health coordinator's services and the librarian would hurt the most at her school.

There, too, the library will be staffed by volunteers.

"The staff are seasoned veterans. We've been through a lot before, and we'll make it a smooth opening," she said.

Did teachers get bad rap?

The cuts aside, comments made by taxpayers at the July 31 budget meeting have taken a toll on morale, according to some staff members.

Woodstock teacher Wendy Ford thinks teachers didn't deserve the comments made about them at the meeting. The teaching staff received an average 3.2 percent raise for next year. A number of taxpayers cried foul, saying such increases weren't justified, considering the loss of revenue from the state and the average income of area residents.

Ford said people don't realize that much of teacher raises often go for out-of-pocket purchases to benefit students.

She said that last year, for example, she paid for newspapers for her class, as well as contributed to help fund a field trip.

"And I've already put in for a field trip this year, and written the check for it," she said.

All field trip money was cut from the budget for the coming year. Ford said her case was typical. "Most teachers buy a lot of things themselves," she said. "I don't think we should be portrayed as the 'bad guys' -- we're not."

Several staff members said commenting on the cuts puts them in a no-win situation -- if they express a "can-do" attitude, it may bring similar cuts next year, but if they talk about the problems created, they'll be accused of making excuses.

"But we're professional educators. We will teach the kids," Ford said.

Bus service cut back

As far as getting students back and forth to school and sports on a reduced budget, it's going to take some getting used to, but people will survive, transportation supervisor Sonny Blake said.

Blake said one of the biggest adjustments will be that parents will have to pick students up at Telstar after away games. In the past, the bus has taken them home.

"It takes more fuel for all those cars to pick up kids. I think it's better for one bus to do it," he said.

Blake also said some regular bus runs will be combined, and activity buses will run abbreviated routes.

daughter, Jill, gives her perspective on trapping in the entry, "My Life as a Trapper's Daughter." She describes some of her father's fellow trappers: "When these men come to my house to sell fur to my dad, I don't know what to think. I feel I just stepped out of a Grizzly Adams movie, with duplicate Grizzly Adams visiting."

On the more serious side, Olson also includes a defense of trapping and trappers, whom he says deserve more respect than they get: "Trapping and hunting have been under attack for a long time. What many people never look at is the result if these animals are not harvested in an orderly manner ... If you think trapping and hunting are cruel, then you ought to see the gruesome picture of overpopulation."

Starvation, mange, and rabies are indeed very slow and tortuous deaths."

One of Olson's favorite experiences is described in "Seventeen Inch Blizzard." He spent a November day on the Saranac River in New York, checking beaver traps by boat during a heavy snowstorm: "Alders were beginning to droop over from the weight of the heavy, wet snow. It was quite a sight to see ... one of nature's wonders."

Speaking again last week of that experience, Olson said, "Being outdoors gives you peace of mind -- it's like waking up after a good night's sleep."

The book is available at Bob's Corner Store in Locke Mills, Mills Market in Andover, and Ta-Ka-Radi in West Bethel.

"YOU COULD ALWAYS TELL who'd made the last catch or the most. It was the guy doing all the talking. The other partner would look quite subdued." -- from "Trapline Adventure Stories," Illustrated by Bob Noonan.

Call to worship was held at 9 a.m. on August 13 at the Newry Community Church with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "Be ye ready," from scriptures St. Luke 12:40. "Be ye therefore ready also; for the Son of Man cometh at an hour ye think not."

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met at Freda Robertson's residence last Monday. Pres. Sylvia Wight opened the meeting and devotions was read by the hostess, "Lord give me space." Sec. Treas. Freda read the notes of the last meeting and brought the finances up to date. There were discussions on what to do to raise money for the church. There will be more on this at the next meeting Wednesday, Sept. 6, at Louise Tetley's. Freda has a cookbook "Seasoned with Love" which is available to anyone who is interested in obtaining one. Contact her by phone at 824-2837 or by mail at Box H.C.R., Newry, ME 04261.

The West Paris Library's annual book and bake sale snuggled itself under a blue awning that the Bacons set up on Aug. 12. Thus situated it had nothing to fear from rain or sun. The morning's business of selling a wide assortment of books and baked goods went forward briskly with few lulls.

The Friends of the Library and the Board of Trustees want to thank everyone who helped make this event a success. We are grateful to the skilled bakers who turned their ovens on despite the heat. We extend thanks to all the readers who donated such interesting books. (Throughout the sale we heard: "You have such a good selection this year...") Of course we are especially grateful to all our friends and neighbors who patronized the event. Finally, we would like to say thank you to Beverly Stevens and Sayward and Cynthia Lamb for joining us with their colorful assortment of well-made crafts. Thank you, everyone.

Danny and Laurel Romasco are receiving congratulations on a new baby boy, named Caleb, who was born Saturday, Aug. 12, 1995, at Stephens Memorial Hospital. He is also welcomed by brother Zachary, who is 5 years old.

Carleton and Mertice Barker and Stan and Priscilla Gammon are at home after being away to a concert in New York this past weekend. They reported they had a good time.

Kate Flynn is in the St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston where she had back surgery. She is doing fine.

Jim Morrison is back in the Memorial Hospital in North Conway, NH 03860; if anyone would like to send cards or visit, I'm sure he would appreciate them.

We finally heard from our daughter and family, who are in Tunisia for a month's visit with family. Abdul has been in the hospital there with back problems but is out and better right now. It was a relief to hear from them.

On Aug. 9, I attended the program at the Brick Church in Lovell Village, where Carolyn Chute, noted author, was the featured speaker. There was a large turnout of people, and afterwards refreshments were served at the Lovell Village Library. It was interesting.

This past Monday night there was a special town meeting with about 19 people attending. Steve Wilson got the contract for plowing and sanding for the next three years, and the townspeople voted for the new addition to be put onto the Stoneham Fire Station. A contractor will do the job. This is for kitchen, meeting room, etc. Back along it has been either freeze to death and hear a speaker or be warm and not hear what was going on, but there usually are problems anywhere and they have to be worked out with cooperation and teamwork. Like someone said: "Look always toward the sunshine and the shadows will fall behind you." And I think someone else said: "Don't look back too much or you won't see where you're going." How true.

Albert, Eleanor and Troy Nelson went to the Nelsons' camp at Wilson's Mills this past weekend. We didn't see any animals, not even a mouse, which was o.k. More and more logging is going on. Where do they find it all?

The Church Thrift and Bake sales at the East Stoneham Church on Saturday did well as usual. Thanks, Lorella.

So much for beano at the Rescue Barn on Tuesday nights. Even the horse and horseshoe didn't help! What's next, Molly?

Till then, have a good week.

"School days, school days those good old golden rule days." I can hear again my parents saying, "The best days of your life are your school days."

Oh, to be able to go back to that innocence of youth, filled with the endless vim and vigor of an energetic body and a quick mind.

Back then, things were so simple; one book, one room, one teacher, one day at a time.

The three R's, my first-grade teacher used to say, reading, writing and arithmetic. Somehow I never could get three R's out of that, but I wasn't about to argue with the teacher. In a short time I did understand its meaning.

Those were good days. Golden days of learning and growing. Days that have faded all too fast in the rush of the world today.

If we could for a moment bring back those old school days and hear the ringing of the morning school bell and the smell of the hot potbelly stove. The creak of the old wooden floor boards and the laughter of children at recess. If only, for just a moment...

The one-room school of rural Maine was my social life and learning for grades one through eight, an average of under 20 pupils, eight grades and one teacher.

We were privileged to listen and learn from each class, as they were called to the front and sat on a "so called recitation seat" for each class. I remember hurrying through my own class work so I could listen to the older students.

We knew everyone in our area and we learned how to work and play together.

Older boys handled wood for the stove and carried water for the earthen jug. Both boys and girls helped to take care of the younger ones if care was needed. It was a truly wonderful start in life!

Ann, Fay, Mary Holt and I went to Two Lights on Thursday, which I'll write about next time.

Gordon and Joan Morgan were host and hostess to the Morgan reunion on Aug. 12 at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman were at Bailey Island on Aug. 10.

Leonas and Fay Holt had a surprise on Monday, Aug. 14. An aunt and uncle drove from Massachusetts to Maine to see them. Both were over 85 years old, John and Freida Cooke.

On Wednesday, Aug. 9, the house on wheels was moved. It turned out to be quite an event. There were quite a few spectators as it rolled down Billings Hill road. I'm told it arrived safely at its destination in South Rumford about three hours later.

Bridget Billings spent the night camping out at Littlefield Beaches on Tuesday, Aug. 8, with her friend Jen Shaw and her family.

On Thursday morning, Sue, Joelle and Errol Silver took a beautiful flight over Bethel, courtesy of Bethel Air Service. Thanks to them for providing free flights to SAD44 children.

Over the weekend the Silvers were in Greenville, attending Forest Heritage Days, and went boating on Moosehead Lake. It really is very beautiful around the lakes and mountains in that area.

On Saturday, Linda Tyler paid a visit to Lee and Emma Billings and took them to Norway to do errands. Louise and Alan Chapman returned home Saturday from a trip out West to visit their daughters and attend graduation services for Sarah Chapman, who graduated from the Chinese School at the Defense Language Institute, U.S. Army, Monterey, Calif. Their other daughter and her husband, Alison and Blaine Dry, live in Issaquah, Wash., and they visited them as well.

Norma Heikkinen, Irene Redman and her granddaughter paid a visit to Emma and Lee Billings on Sunday afternoon. Emma was glad to see them.

The O'Neals from Massachusetts paid a visit to Rob and Norma Davis over the weekend. She is the former Adelaide Emery of Rowe Hill.

Chris and Ken Lindsay were in Pinhook on Monday, Aug. 14, visiting her parents, Rob and Norma Davis.

Caroline Brown visited with Lee and Emma Billings, also on Monday.

On Tuesday, Tammy, Shane, Jason and Bridget Billings went to Lewiston school shopping.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates Howdy, folks. What a nice Monday this has been. The only problem is that it gets too hot for me, and like the old family dog I have to go for the shade.

Last Monday evening, we attended Musical Night and Open House at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond. There were some visiting Grange members and quite a few non-members. For a break in the music, Peggy and I put on a skit about a fellow needing a brain transplant.

We discovered, last Tuesday morning, that one of those garden varmints, presumably a coon, had been in and sampled to see when the sweet corn would be ready for good eating. I put up my usual fencing, leaving an opening wide enough for a coon to go through, and I put a trap there.

We had a very hard thunder shower Friday evening and lost our electricity for several hours. But we were okay, as we had one of those old trusty kerosene lamps. How did we ever survive with those before we had electricity?

Peggy attended the dance at West Paris Grange Hall Saturday evening. Her dancing friend, Lawrence Merrill, was still in the hospital.

Sunday afternoon, we visited Lawrence Merrill at the Norway hospital. His brother Ralph was there, and we enjoyed our visit with both of them.

Clarabelle Holden picked blackberries at the Lovejoys' one day last week.

Alan Lovejoy of Oxford spent Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Lovejoys'.

Sharmaine Penley of West Paris visited Mary Lovejoy on Monday.

There will be a dance at the Locke Mills Town Hall on Aug. 26, with music by the Richard Fell Orchestra. There's lots of opportunity for good exercise.

Oxford Pomona Grange will meet at Frederick Robie Grange Hall on Sept. 5 for installation of officers for the coming year.

MOVE OVER LASSIE, there's a new canine star on the airwaves. It's Rufus, star of Channel IV's "Rufus: Home Alone." The beagle/basset, owned by Ian Remington of Bethel, provided some unexpected TV entertainment last Tuesday evening. Ian and his dad, Alan, had made a tape of Rufus some time ago at their house, while the dog was home by himself. "We wanted to see what he would do when he was alone," Alan said. Then, when Alan had to shut down Channel IV's computer during a demonstration of some technical equipment, he decided to play the tape "because we had to have something on the air." So puzzled viewers were treated to the unannounced, one-hour-and-fifteen-minute broadcast. Rufus first tried to raid the refrigerator and kitchen cupboards. He then spent the next hour sitting on the couch, howling occasionally. The show reportedly drew the immediate attention of area dogs. Jacques, a Rotweiler owned by Jewell Clark, took more than a passing interest. "He growled. I had to shut it off. I thought he was going to attack the TV," Clark said. Human viewers questioned weren't willing to say exactly how much time they devoted to watching a dog sitting on a couch. But Channel IV officials did say if popular demand was such, an encore performance might be arranged. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

REICH MUSEUM PROGRAM

Friends of The Wilhelm Reich Museum, Rangeley, will offer a natural science program entitled "Stream and Pond Wildlife," Sunday, Aug. 27, 2 to 4 p.m. -- "and wait to watch the water clear, I may." -- Robert Frost. Naturalist Warren Balgooyen will walk to the "lawn" area on the shore of Dodge Pond for a discussion of Maine lakes and ponds and the rich diversity of habitat they offer. Focus will be on diurnal, seasonal, and long-range, natural cycles of lakes. Time will also be spent in discussing lake eutrophication, a natural process that is being accelerated in many Maine waters due to poor land management, development and non-point source pollution.

These free programs are made possible by partial grants from The United Way, The Wing-Benjamin Trust, International Paper and John Sage Foundation.

4-H GOLF FUND RAISER

The 4-H Youth Development Aspirations project will hold a mini-golf fund raiser on Sept. 9, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Seacoast Fun Park in Windham. The mini-golf fee is $5.25 for adults and $4.25 for children 12 and under and Senior Citizens.

4-H Youth Development is an educational outreach program of the University of Maine Cooperative Extension. All proceeds (half of the costs) will go to the Youth Aspirations and Entrepreneurship project in Oxford County.

For more information, contact Susan Jennings, extension educator, at 1-800-287-1482.

BICENTENNIAL

"200 Years of Bethel Art & Artists" will open at the Owen Art Gallery of Gould Academy on Sept. 8. The show, sponsored by the Bethel Bicentennial Committee, will feature a variety of art portraying the town as it was in the past, as it might have been, or as it was only in the artist's eye.

The Education Group of the Bicentennial Committee is looking for such artwork. Is there such a treasure in your attic? Or your friend's? Or maybe right in front of your eyes?

For example, the late Bethel artist, Mary Shaw, said "thank you" to friends for a bountiful Christmas basket with a delicately painted Christmas tree card.

Natalie Timberlake is chair of the Education Group sub-committee. Other members are Polly Davis, Barbara Lucas, Phyllis Dock, Olive Risko, Marvin Ouwinga, Kathy and Jonathan Goldberg, Sally Taylor and Nancy Grover. To make a referral or for more information, call 824-2234, 824-2384, or 824-2778.

To date, approximately 80 works have been identified. Some others exist which are too fragile for their owners to share in original form. At later dates during the Bicentennial year, some of these will be photographed and appear in one of the 15 topical exhibits which are being planned through next August.
